Market Commentary

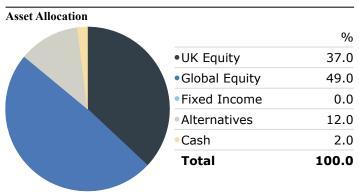

the Christmas period, and we can hopefully look forward to a more prosperous and better 2023.

December was a slightly weaker month for most asset classes with both bond and equity markets coming under pressure. The key development during the month remained the theme we have seen all year and the moves by central banks to further increase interest rates. The Bank of England has now increased interest rates to 3.5%, a significant distance from the 0.25% level at the beginning of 2022. The key reason for interest rates moving higher was inflation. Whilst this remains elevated it has started to moderate and even fall in some regions. The UK Consumer Price Index (CPI) fell to 10.7% in December from 11.1% in the previous month. The United States is seeing bigger falls in inflation with data released confirming that CPI has bankers and their approach to interest rate policy. fallen to 7.1% from 7.7% in the previous month.

Happy New Year! Everyone at Luna hopes you enjoyed The UK ten-year government bond yield ticked up from 3.05% to 3.58% in the month, which meant that bond prices fell in value due to the inverse relationship between yields and price. Most major equity markets fell modestly during the month, however, the Hang Seng (Hong Kong stock market) bucked the trend and delivered a positive return. Chinese equities continue to bounce from depressed levels and the government reversal of their Covid strategy, despite the high number of cases being reported, is being welcomed by investors.

> In summary, inflation and the cost of living continues to impact on us and markets in the short term. However, at Luna we look further ahead to meet longer term goals and (try to) ignore the short term market noise. Looking forward Inflationary pressures are likely to ease as we move through the year, which should help central
